CONSUMPTION

By the Physicians SEVERE COUCH

At Night Spitting Blood

Given Over by the Doctors! LIFE SAVED BY AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Seven years ago, my wife had a severe attack of lung trouble which the physicians pronounced consumption. The cough was extremely distressing, of especially at night, and was frequently attended with the spitting of blood. The doctors being unable to help her. I induced her to try Ayer's Cherry Fee of toral, and Ayis surprised at the great renef it go. Before using one whole bottle, she was cured, so that now she is quite strong and healthy. That this medicine saved my wife's life, I have not the least doubt."—R. Monris, Memphis, Tenn.

looks ridiculously insignificant when surrounded by the magnificence of his audience room, which is an immense apartment. He resides in a fine large palace in Seoul, with his queen and half a thousand other women who are nominally his wives. The queen, how-ever, is always at the king's side and is really his keeper. The king of Corea, like many Americans, stays up all night and does his sleeping in the daytime. All night long he and his queen sit and amoke bits of Chinese tobacco in little golden pipes. This turning night into day is caused by foars of a revolution. The city of Seoul is a very large city, having a wall nearly twenty miles in length and numbering among its people half a million souls. Of this

Preparing for Winter.

After harvest it is well to turn one's thoughts toward the long, cold wipter absad and "figure" on what preparations will be necessary to carry the live stock comfortably through, The provision of an adequate supply of proper food is of first importance and calculations should at once be made as to the amount required. The home supply of such things as hay, fodder, corn and oats is usually ample, but other foods are necessar, and by commencing early to think about such things it will often be possible to save many a dollar, before a rise in price takes place. Every owner of stock can afford to sell off a portion of hisear corn, and with the proceeds purchase bran, shorts, middlings and oil meal, but in many districts where grain is taken to the mill the "grist" is got in trade and usually is a better sample than the commercial stuffs. Oil meal is not yet gommonly used on the average farm, but is becoming rapidly and rightly popular, for sure. we can better afford to fe d it at hom? than send the bulk of it abroad to be bought greedily at high prices by the men that feed steers against our cheap meat. In this country of the plies for the long fight against cold. but we do not feed a sufficient amount of nitrogenous food to finely finish prime beef, pork or mutton. Our foreign neighbors use our corn in food they prize most is the oil calthat comes from the linsees oil and cottonseed oil mills, and they par prices that are really astonishing. The vise its readers to substitute a portion of oil meal or ground cake in the usual ration for animals that are being finished for the Christmas markets, and th food need cost no more than the id ration, if the cost of the ration be properly figured, as but one part of the oil meal will be needed to seven parts of carbonaceous food, such as corn. When laying in a supply of such foods it is also well to take pre-cautions against waste of good feeding material due to poor shelter for the stock; for one of the most serious leaks in farm economy is that in the barn that lets in drafts and so causes a waste of heat producing food. It should be understood that good ventilation-plenty of fresh air-never retards fattening when animals are tied up indoors, for such air is needed to supply all the other forces that unite in the assimilation of food and formation of flesh and fat; the hot nonoxygenized atmosphere of an overcrowded barn is also detrimental, as it causes animals to sweat, drink large quantities of water, and in other ways fail to thrive. See, then, that the stables are well ventilated, yet free from drafts, and depend upon it that they will be warm enough when full of cattle, and that too much warmth is decidedly detrimental. Another point to remember in preparing for winter is the water supply, which annually is a source of trouble upon thousands of farms. We need give little advice, but merely remind our readers how absurd it is to have to water hundreds of cattle from a common well stantly freezing up and bursting. "Before we were married," she sobbed, "you would go out with me anywhere." "Well, what of it?" "Now I don't believe you would even go to my funeral." "Ah! wouldn't I.

WHAT THE DOCTOR SAYS ABOUT A GREAT REMEDY.

"I take pleasure in stating that I have used Royal Germetuer extensively in my practice, and have found it as nearly a specific for dyspepsia, indigestion, catarrh and nervous debling as any remedy I have ever tried. It is an excellent remedy for all stemach and bowel troubles. For weak and deblittated women I think it is a wonderful remedy. As a local application it is a prompt relief for piles, cuts, bruises and sores of all kinds. With my family it is a standing household remedy."
